GRIN Verlag Apr 2012, 2012. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 210x148x1 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Research Paper from the year 2011 in the subject Nature Protection, Landscape Conservation, printed single-sided, grade: -, University of Dodoma (Institute of Rural Development Planning), language: English, comment: This paper is a result of an organized walk which intended to find out how the Development of Dodoma Municipality is sustainable. It focused on few features found alongside the researched area. The paper is a tool and a welcome to those who wants to do Environmental Impact Assessment-(EIA) before resorting to any project, but also it is a help to different projects established already for them to acquire their sustainability. , abstract: The study was conducted at the area along (Dodoma-Arusha Road) from Institute of Rural Development Planning to Down Town Dodoma Municipality to assess whether development can be sustainable and how this sustainability is maintained. An organized walk was set along the road and plot was designed at an interval of 200 meters. Any observed condition leading to unsustainability was recorded, also settlement type, vegetation types, drainage systems condition, roads' condition, livestock and crops found along were recorded as well. Computer programs including macro-soft excel, macro-soft word were used during data collection and analysis. The study revealed that even the drainage systems and roads around higher institutions like IRDP were not well maintained. The road maintenance including concrete and tarmac road had some implications of lowering sustainable development as drainage systems were not directed and maintained properly, off roads were prominent at the earth road from IRDP to a stop called Mwisho wa Lami around Miyuji street along the study area. The area was also, occupied by mostly exotic trees which is an indication that the natural...
